Sonnet XVIII
William Shakespeare

Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?
 Thou art more lovely and more temperate:
 Rough winds do shake the darling buds of May,
 And summer's lease hath all too short a date:
 Sometime too hot the eye of heaven shines,
 And then the quick-eyed augur of the time
 Doth fall from heaven to tempt all times to slide;
 But thy eternal summer shall not fade,
 Nor shall all roses die, nor shall their shade
 When to the ground these sleepers have decayed,
 Thy eternal love to mine shall grow a day:
 So long as men can breathe or eyes can see,
 So long lives this, and this gives life to thee.

Randolph Torrey
 1872-1942
